READING

1-Read the following passage.

There is not enough petrol in the world for everybody now, and each year there is less, so what are we going to do when it finishes? Perhaps we will go back to horses and carriages and bicycles.

In the Second World War, some people did not use petrol in their cars. They made gas from wood and plants instead, and then they put it in big bags on top of their cars. The cars did not go fast, but it was better than nothing. But we cannot cut down all our trees to make gas; we need them for other things too. Besides gas, we can also use electricity for our cars, but first we must make the electricity! Some countries have coal, and they make electricity with that, but we will not always have coal. Other countries have big, strong rivers, and these turn turbines and make electricity more easily and cheaply.

We are also able to get power from the tides. We put turbines in the mouth of a river. Then, when the tide comes up, it turns the turbines, and when it runs back towards the sea, it turns them again. And we know that the waves of the sea can also turn turbines when they go up and down. Which of all these things will make our electricity in the year 2020?

Look at these questions. Find the right answers:

1 When will we perhaps have to go back to horses and carriages?

- a) When human beings run out of petrol.
- b) When the world finishes.
- c) When pollution spreads all over the world.

2 What did some people carry in big bags in the last war?

- a) Gas.
- b) Wood and plants.
- c) Energy tubes.

3 Why did they do this?

- a) Because the wood and plants kept their cars going.
- b) Because the gas made their cars go.
- c) Because they felt greener.

4 Why can't we cut down all our trees to make gas?

- a) Because cars do not go fast with gas.
- b) Because gas is better than nothing.
- c) Because human beings need trees for other purposes.

5 Which makes electricity more cheaply, coal or the water in rivers?

- a) Both of them do.
- b) The water in rivers does.
- c) Coal does.

6 How can tides make electricity?

- a) By putting turbines in the mouth of a river.
- b) By turning turbines.
- c) By means of electric power.

7 When does a tide turn a turbine?

- a) Only when it comes up.
- b) Only when it runs back towards the sea.
- c) Both, when it comes up and when it goes back to the sea.

8 How are waves able to turn turbines?

- a) By rising and falling.
- b) By running in and then back again.
- c) By increasing the amount of water.

2- Read the text below attentively and write T or F for each statement in the chart.

The Digital Divide

A recent survey has shown that the number of people in the United Kingdom who do not intend to get internet access has risen. These people, who are known as 'net refuseniks', make up 44% of UK households, or 11.2 million people in total.

The research also showed that more than 70 percent of these people said that they were not interested in getting connected to the internet. This number has risen from just over 50% in 2005, with most giving lack of computer skills as a reason for not getting internet access, though some also said it was because of the cost.

More and more people are getting broadband and high speed net is available almost everywhere in the UK, but there are still a significant number of people who refuse to take the first step.

The cost of getting online is going down and internet speeds are increasing, so many see the main challenge to be explaining the relevance of the internet to this group. This would encourage them to get connected before they are left too far behind. The gap between those who have access to and use the internet is the digital divide, and if the gap continues to widen, those without access will get left behind and miss out on many opportunities, especially in their careers.

Questions	T or F?
1. More people in the UK do not intend to get internet access than before.
2. The majority of people in the UK are 'net refuseniks'.
3. Most of those without internet access want to get it.
4. The minority of the people surveyed in 2005 weren't interested in having internet access.
5. The main reason for not getting internet access is the cost.
6. High speed internet is not available everywhere in the UK.
7. Both costs and speeds are increasing.
8. Many people think that getting the costs down is the key to this problem.

9. The digital divide is widening in the UK.
10. Not having access to the internet will only affect people's careers.
